Cheatsography Nanda Nursing Diagnosis for Schizophrenia Cheat Sheet
by [Name] via @cheatsography.com/2754ta10037

Definition	Sign and Symptoms
Schizophrenia is a mental disorder characterized by a breakdown of thought processes and by poor emotional responsiveness. It most often involves hallucinations, delusions, and a disorganized, incoherent speech and thinking, and it is accompanied by a withdrawal or social isolation.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> hallucinations, the person hears, sees, and believes things that are not there. Behavior changes might include the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Disorientation (time, place, and a feeling of being unreal) Loss of energy Disorganization (jumbled ideas and a feeling of being unreal) Loss of hygiene Obsessions Delusions (for example, hearing things not actually present) Catatonia (rigid posture) Flat affect (no facial expression) People with schizophrenia can experience symptoms that they are grouped under the following categories: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Disorganized or thought-disorganized: disorganized speech, disorganized behavior, and a lack of attention to personal appearance Positive symptoms: hallucinations, delusions, and/or abnormal thoughts Negative or deficit symptoms: social withdrawal, difficulty in expressing emotions or interests, being called "flat" affect, difficulty in taking care of themselves, inability to feel pleasure Cognitive symptoms: difficulties planning and organizing information, in understanding the environment, and in remembering simple tasks
Causes Etiology is complex and involves genetic, environmental, and neurochemical factors. The exact cause of schizophrenia is not known, but it is believed to be a combination of genetic and environmental factors.
Diagnosis Diagnosis is based on a clinical interview and a physical examination. The DSM-5 criteria for schizophrenia are used to make a diagnosis.
Treatment Treatment typically involves a combination of medication and psychotherapy. Antipsychotic medications are used to manage symptoms, and psychotherapy helps with coping and social skills.
Prognosis The prognosis for schizophrenia is generally poor, but it can vary. Some people experience a full recovery, while others have a chronic condition.

@DukeU_NrsngSchl/Twitter The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that jobs for nurse practitioners, nurse midwives and nurse anesthetists are set to have a faster than average growth rate of 26 percent between 2018 and 2028. If not, a 100% online college may offer a better solution. The university has an excellent NCLEX pass rate of 97 percent and offers 14 separate nursing programs for students to specialize in their fields. @RushUniversity/Twitter University of CincinnatiThe University of Cincinnati has a reputation across many educational review sites as having one of the best online nursing programs. Easier access to nursing programs at prominent universities makes it easier than ever for students to advance in their career at a pace that suits their budgets and other needs. The aging patient population and baby boomers retiring from the profession make it highly likely that there will be a greater demand for caregivers and medical experts for years to come. Online nursing programs at UCF are also some of the most affordable in the country, at slightly more than $11,000 per year. Apart from the comparatively low tuition, UCF also has one of the highest NCLEX pass rates at 98.06 percent. @UCF_Nursing/Twitter Duke UniversityIt shouldn't be surprising to see Duke University on this list, as it was one of the first schools to offer distance education in the field. The program has a convenient asynchronous format, and degrees from the University of Cincinnati nursing programs are recognized worldwide. All the programs emphasize research, expanding scholarly knowledge and preparing nurses for leadership roles in clinical practice. UCF nursing programs consist of 30 credit hours that can be completed in as few as three semesters. Students looking to apply for a Master of Science in Nursing (MSN) have the option of taking a maximum of nine credited hours of online coursework. What makes Rush University's online nursing programs attractive is that students can enroll either in part-time or full-time programs. The average salary of registered nurses in the U.S. in 2018 was more than $71,000, but an RN with this entry-level degree should expect to make closer to the lower end of the salary range at around $58,000 a year. Typically, this course of study takes two years to complete and requires some courses to be completed online at the medical school. Photo Courtesy: Eternity in an Instant/Stone/Getty Images The 2020 coronavirus pandemic certainly reminded the world of the importance of quality nursing. Photo Courtesy: Siri Stafford/The Image Bank/Getty Images Earning an MSN was once the only option for nurses who wanted to eventually become any type of advanced practice RN, which includes nurse practitioner, clinical nursing specialist, certified nurse midwife, nursing educator, clinical nursing leader and anesthetist, but that changed in 2015 when the American Association of Colleges of Nursing changed the recommendation for advanced practice nursing to a Doctor of Nursing Practice degree. Salaries at this level increase to the higher end of the scale, usually near the upper $80,000 range. U.S. News & World Report ranks Rush University (Illinois), University of South Carolina, Johns Hopkins University, Ohio State University and St. Xavier University (Illinois) at the top of its list of online graduate nursing programs. Top contenders in the online RN-to-BSN arena include Oklahoma State University, Baptist Memorial College of Health Sciences (Tennessee), Rutgers University (New Jersey), Indiana University and Goshen College (Indiana).Online Master of Science in NursingAs with BSN degrees, a Master of Science in Nursing (MSN) can be earned 100% online at some schools without attending a single class in person. Among the advanced specialties that Duke offers are a Doctor of nursing practice degree and MSN. Start your review process with a look at some of the top online nursing programs offered by various accredited U.S. institutions. Online Associate Degree in NursingAn associate degree in nursing prepares students for entry-level job positions in the healthcare sector and is the lowest degree level required to become a registered nurse (RN). However, because nursing involves hands-on clinical care, those programs often require students to attend certain sessions in person. MORE FROM ASKMONEY.COM The programs require a registered nursing (RN) degree or a Bachelor of Science in medicine major in nursing (BSN) degree to enroll in an advanced practice specialty area. If you're interested in training to become a nurse but don't have the schedule flexibility you need to attend classes in person, an online nursing program could offer an ideal alternative. Fortunately, prospective students can choose from a wide variety of online nursing programs at many universities across the country. Nurse practitioners often make more than 100,000 annually, for example. Tuition costs around $12,000 a year. @UC_nursing/Twitter University of Central FloridaThe University of Central Florida (UCF) is one of the biggest universities in the United States, offering more than 200 programs to 63,000 students. The following are the best-reviewed online nursing degrees. Georgetown UniversityIt's hard to overlook Georgetown University and the high National Council Licensure Examination (NCLEX) pass rate of its nursing program — 99.2 percent, to be exact. The degree program's sub-specialties include Doctor of Nursing, Doctor of Nursing Practice, Doctor of Nursing Science and Doctor of Nursing Philosophy. Certification in such areas can come in as few as 19 months. According to NurseJournal.org, some of the best online programs for earning a Doctor of Nursing Practice include Azusa Pacific University (California), Bradley University (Illinois), Catholic University of America (Washington D.C.), Clemson University (South Carolina) and DeSales University (Pennsylvania). State regulations currently determine which degrees are required for advanced practice nursing. Online Doctor of Nursing PracticeThe relatively new Doctor of Nursing Practice is the highest attainable clinical nursing degree, but students can still earn this degree through various online programs. Upon completing the degree plan, the student must also pass the National Council Licensure Examination (NCLEX-RN) to receive the necessary credentials to practice as a registered nurse. Those looking to advance their skills and specialty from RN to BSN can do so 100 percent online with University of Cincinnati's BSN degree online nursing program. These programs are popular with RNs who already have bachelor's degrees (required) and want to expand their careers into administrative fields or teaching. Advanced University of Cincinnati specialty programs include nurse midwifery, adult gerontology primary care nurse practitioner and family nurse practitioner. Data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics show that the median pay for nursing jobs was $113,000 in 2018, making it a distinctly viable career choice. Top ranked online associate degree nursing programs, according to Accredited Schools Online — an organization dedicated to helping students find the best fully accredited online schools to meet their needs — include Barton Community College (Kansas), Sinclair College (Ohio), St. Philips College (Texas), Tulsa Community College and Cincinnati State Technical and Community College. While students should expect to pay a premium for the programs ($1,111 per credit hour as an undergraduate and $1,425 per credit hour as a graduate), Duke University's high NCLEX passing rate of more than 98 percent makes it worthwhile. On average, most of the online programs require some two and a half years to complete. The required number of credits is similar to other bachelor degrees and typically takes RNs (who already have associate degrees) about 15 months to two years to complete. Photo Courtesy: Reza Estakhrian/The Image Bank/Getty Images Because these programs are specifically designed for working nurses, it's possible to find some schools that allow students to complete all their coursework 100% online. Most online BSN programs are designed for students who are already working as registered nurses but want to expand their career opportunities by earning a bachelor's degree. That gives students more flexibility in completing their coursework at their own pace. According to Affordable Colleges Online, registered nurses with BSN degrees can expect to earn an average of $83,000 per year. @GtownNHS/Twitter Georgetown offers four online nursing Master's degrees: family nurse practitioner, nurse-midwifery/women's health nurse practitioner, adult gerontology acute nurse practitioner and women's health nurse practitioner. Photo Courtesy: Sam Edwards/OJO Images/Getty Images The increasing number of elderly Americans and the increasing healthcare focus on preventative care led the Bureau of Labor Statistics to predict an increase of 36% in nurse practitioner jobs from 2016 to 2026, and many institutions and states now require a nursing doctoral degree instead of the former MSN to obtain that job. It's important to consider the details for this special requirement (if applicable) when choosing a school to ensure you could feasibly travel to your preferred institution if it's necessary to occasionally attend in person. Students who take part in the program prime themselves for a successful and financially rewarding career in the medical field. Nurses with this degree typically earn significantly more than the average RN, depending on their exact position. MORE FROM BLOGLINES SDI Productions/Getty Images With the increasing need for more qualified nurses in the United States, even prestigious colleges and universities have made their nursing programs available online. Tuition is approximately $40,000. Rush UniversityRush University is part of the Illinois medical district in Chicago and a good alternative for students who are working on a budget, with tuition costs around $12,000. Photo Courtesy: Masko/Getty Images Online Bachelor of Science in NursingBesides expanding expertise and training, earning a Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) can boost anticipated salaries as much as 15% beyond average RN salaries with associate degrees.
